You love, and you love well. You know it can get messy, but you're strong enough to persist. You lay down the cost to love others without concern for yourself. Sacrifice given without thought or hesitation. You simply love that deeply, and those who you love, you withhold nothing from when it is in your power to give.

The "mess" that a person is in does not cause you to hold back your love, for you have a gift for being able to see past that mess. You refuse to let a person's hurt and negativity cloud your judgment of who they can become with healing. This ability to see the potential good in others isn't a matter of unrealistic optimism, but simply mercy and integrity of the highest degree. To love and believe in others in this way, helps them to recover their self worth.

Your sacrifice may not always be seen, but it is always felt. And recognized or not, it is invaluable – a worthy gift, a gift beyond measure. Know that your gift of love is having more impact than you may ever know, and the fact that you give without the need to know or the need to be recognized is part of what makes you so amazing. So continue to love and love well. The beauty of doing so reflects gloriously in your countenance.

We hope the art and the colorful encouragement speak to you. Enjoy life and stay in the flow!
